'Manslaughter' charged in parade death

BY GEOFF BELCHER
News Editor

A Hancock County Grand Jury on Thursday indicted 21-year-old Robert Corkern for manslaughter in the post-Mardi Gras parade death of Bryant K. Keyes.

Corkern was booked on the manslaughter charge at the Hancock County Justice Facility Thursday and released on a $20,000 bond.

Assistant District Attorney Chris Schmidt said Friday that "I don't anticipate any further indictments in the case at this time."

Keyes, 42, of Waveland, died Feb. 16 from injuries he suffered in an altercation just after the Krewe of Nereids Mardi Gras parade in Waveland.

An autopsy performed by medical examiner Dr. Paul McGarry concluded that Keyes died from a blunt impact to the head from landing on asphalt.

Waveland police interviewed more than 20 witnesses in the case. Several different versions of the events leading to Keyes' demise circulated after his death, including that the incident occurred after the crowd intervened in a domestic dispute between Keyes and his

Bowling pro pleads guilty, confesses to embezzling funds from Park Ten

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

Sam R. Cittadino III, 38, of Picayune, a former manager at Park Ten Lanes bowling center in Diamondhead and bowling pro, changed his plea mid-trial on Thursday. Cittadino, who was charged with embezzling over $140,000 in funds from the center from 2000 to 2002, changed his not guilty plea to guilty and confessed to funneling about $60,000 from league accounts and from the bowling center's nightly intake into his own pockets to bankroll a gambling habit.

Defense attorney John

Whitfield said Cittadino had lost close to a hundred thousand dollars to that habit over the past three years at local casinos. Settlement on the amount of restitution required will likely occur during the sentencing phase of the case. For now, Cittadino is free on bond, facing not only the repayment of funds, but a possible ten-year prison sentence and fines up to $10,000.

Witnesses the day before, told the court that Cittadino was in charge of counting the center's intake each evening. A lot of that intake was in cash they said. None said they ever saw him taking funds from the center.

One employee, 23-year-old Angela Brown said she did see Cittadino changing figures on closeout sheets, but under cross examination she said he was merely changing the numbers to reflect a change of bill amounts for the next day's banks at the center.

The main questions arose over whether Cittadino recorded the intake of cash from bowling leagues on Monday and Wednesday nights and from the fact that he sometimes cashed league checks or center checks at various registers throughout the center. Suspicions were aroused when he cashed one of the presigned checks left by owner Jim English to pay for beer deliveries, supposedly to pay for a $150 ball drilling class.

After that English brought in Barbara Postier, the wife of manager Norman Postier, to take a closer look at the books. Postier found discrepancies totaling several thousand dollars. Charges were filed in January of 2003.

Deputies injured in arrest

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS

A Bay St. Louis man racked up numerous criminal charges when he fled from Hancock County Narcotics Division Agents on Tuesday, following the alleged sale of controlled substance, according to Division Chief Major Matt Karl.

"Sidney Bell Saucier, 23, of Bay St. Louis, was charged with the sale of a controlled substance, two counts of simple assault on police officers and one count of resisting arrest.

Our department received word that Saucier was dealing in crack cocaine. We set up a controlled buy in the Hancock County Civic Center's parking lot. Saucier made the sale, jumped in his vehicle and took off with agents in pursuit," Karl recalled.

"In avoiding agents, Saucier brushed my vehicle and an agent's vehicle, in addition to a civilian vehicle on Highway 603. Eventually, about a mile away, he came to a stop in front of an apartment complex and fled on foot," Karl said.

"I don't know how a Waveland Police unit joined in the pursuit so fast. We also had support from Bay St. Louis Police and as the Mississippi Highway Patrol."

"During the foot chase and apprehension of Saucier, Agents Clifton (Bubba) Malley and Johnny Alison were injured. Both were taken to Hancock Medical Center and treated. Malley had a broken finger and Alison a hand injury," Karl stated.

Also joining in the arrest was Agent Chris Russell.

Saucier's bond was set at $100,000, which he later posted, according to the Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility's log book.

The time is from 5 to 7 p.m., and I have been told there will be some very good Hot BBQ and cool refreshments for the After Hours.

Court Street Station is located on Beach Boulevard at Court Street, (next to the railroad) in Bay St. Louis.

The sponsors are Antiques, Trinkets & Treasures, Millie and Bob Green; and Bid Daddy's Restaurant, Ricky Favre and Mitchell Bates.

The chamber's After Hours are becoming more and more popular and it is a great time to renew old acquaintances and make new ones.

I hope to see you at the After Hours on Thursday.

Folks in the Leetown area need to be getting ready for the Non-Hazardous House Rubbish & Debris & Tires collection to take place Saturday, April 17, 8:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. at the Leetown Ballfield, Leetown Road and Necaise-Caesar Roads.

This is a joint effort by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the Hancock County Board of Supervisors and Road Crews.

A similar collection is set for April 24 in Waveland at the old Wal-Mart Parking Lot; and May 1 at the Diamondhead Shopping Center.

For more information contact the chamber at 467-9048.

Protecting Gun Rights

I'm co-sponsoring a Senate bill that will protect America's firearms manufacturers and sellers from outrageous lawsuits holding them liable for crimes committed with guns.

Like the tactics we're seeing employed with the homosexual marriage issue, the left is also pushing an unpopular anti-gun agenda through a few sympathetic courts, city councils and other cherry-picked venues, trying to bypass the American majority.

Lawsuits by individuals and local governments against gun makers are just the liberals' latest move against gun ownership. Most law-abiding gun owners, including myself, see through it, and we're taking action to stop it.

This liability reform legislation (Senate Bill 1805, or S. 1805) doesn't negate any existing laws. It simply aims to protect those who are legally manufacturing and marketing firearms.

Those who break existing laws are still subject to punishment, as they should be. However, firearms manufacturers who are following the law shouldn't have to worry about lawsuits against them just because they legally made or sold the instrument that someone else uses to break laws.

FROM THE SENATE

By U.S. Senator
Trent Lott

"The right to make, own and sell arms is part of our unique American cultural and legal fabric. Indeed, familiarity with firearms and the manufacture of them is what helped America win its independence from a well-trained and numerically superior foe."

If this logic were followed, automakers would face lawsuits when drunk drivers kill people with their cars. Cutlery makers could face legal action when someone stabs another with a kitchen knife.

The right to make, own and sell arms is part of our unique American cultural and legal fabric. Indeed, familiarity with firearms and the manufacture of them is what helped America win its independence from a well-trained and numerically superior foe. Since our Revolution, Americans have been world leaders in the design, use and the manufacture of firearms, beginning with the famed Kentucky Rifle. The firearms craft today employs thousands. It was one of America's first skilled industries, and today we remain the world's leader in the field.

The founding fathers thought so highly of the firearm's value and this industry's relationship to American freedom and identity that they choose to preserve gun ownership in our vaunted Bill of Rights, which protects our most basic freedoms.

S.1805 protects this long tradition and the families it supports, encouraging the enforcement of existing laws rather than the filing of junk lawsuits. It will join similar measures passed in most states as well as the U.S. House of Representatives in helping protect firearms manufacturers from liability nationwide.

Contrary to claims by anti-gun activists, S.1805 will have absolutely no effect on current law enforcement tools which exist to help police fight crime.

Existing laws are already stringent and will remain so. For instance, applicants for federal firearms licenses are subject to background checks. Licensed dealers as well as manufacturers and importers have to keep records of all the guns that enter or leave their inventory. Licensees must report any stolen gun within 48 hours of discovering a theft.

Is a new Waveland marina worth it?

Why is Mayor Tommy Longo going to borrow three million dollars to build a marina between the Garfield Ladner pier and the Veterans Memorial? Are the taxpayers of Waveland willing to absorb the tax increase that will be necessary to pay off this loan? Do we need a marina? How many of us have eighty foot yachts to dock in this marina? Won't the beaches be closed to swimming and fishing due to sewerage and fuel oil that will undoubtedly end up in the water? Who is going to pay to maintain this boondoggle?

Does Mayor Longo care what the taxpayers and voters of this city want, or does he have a personal agenda? Do the city aldermen know what their constituents think of this project? When is the next election?

American Cancer Society offers programs to help in the fight against cancer

The American Cancer Society is fighting to eliminate cancer through research, education, advocacy and service and offers cancer patients and anyone with a concern about cancer a number of services.

The American Cancer Society has lofty goals for the future. By 2015, the organization hopes to reduce cancer incidence by 25 percent, reduce cancer deaths by 50 percent and measurably improve the quality of life for cancer patients.

"Many people know that the American Cancer Society is fighting to eliminate cancer," said Glenda Collins, an American Cancer Society volunteer. "What many people don't know is that there are many services that the American Cancer Society offers to help cancer patients make it through their journey."

A number of services are available to cancer patients. The Cancer Survivors Network is a unique virtual community, created by and for survivors, offers an array of services for survivors and loved ones to connect with one another, share experiences and offer support and can be reached 24 hours a day at 1-877-333-4673 (HOPE) or by visiting www.cancer.org.

Students under the age of 21 who have battled cancer are eligible for the $1,000 American Cancer Society Mid-South Division College Scholarship.

The American Cancer Society Mid-South Division offers transportation grants to social service departments of qualifying hospitals or freestanding treatment centers who provide radiation therapy. The funds are to be used to assist cancer patients with emergency recurring/chronic transportation needs, when no other assistance is available.

The Mid-South Division collects and provides referrals to local resources that address the needs of patients, their families and caregivers. If we are unable to identify a resource or develop a resource to meet a patient's need in a timely manner, a patient would be eligible to apply for financial assistance from the American Cancer Society.

The American Cancer Society also offers direct support to cancer patients through visitation programs and support groups such as:

• Reach to Recovery - A volunteer visitation program that matches breast cancer survivors with anyone who has a concern about breast cancer.

• Look Good...Feel Better - A program in which trained volunteer cosmetologists help female cancer patients deal with the side effects of treatment by teaching them beauty techniques to enhance their appearance and self-image.

• Man to Man - A prostate cancer education and support group that offers education, discussion and support to men with prostate cancer.

• I Can Cope - A patient education program designed to help cancer patients and their loved ones deal with their cancer experience.

• Support Groups - These groups help cancer patients and their families deal with the physical and emotional stress of coping with cancer diagnosis and treatment.

Anyone with a question about cancer or who wants to volunteer can call 24 hours a day at 1-800-ACS-2345 or visit www.cancer.org.

The American Cancer Society is the nationwide, community-based, voluntary health organization dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem by preventing cancer, saving lives and diminishing suffering from cancer, through research, education, advocacy and service.

What can you do to fight cancer?

What can one person do to fight cancer? Just ask one of the two million people working in communities like Hancock County to reduce the threat of cancer. The answer: participate in the American Cancer Society's signature event, Relay For Life.

Last year, more than 3,000 communities nationwide participated in Relay For Life and raised more than $243 million, making the event the largest fund raiser in the U.S.

Relay For Life is an overnight fund-raising event filled with activities, food and community spirit. All funds raised at Relay For Life support American Cancer Society programs designed to reduce cancer incidence and mortality through research, education, advocacy and patient services.

Relay For Life of Hancock County will be held May 22 from noon to 6 a.m. at Hancock Medical Center's Walking Track.

The impact of cancer is clear. More than 8.9 million cancer survivors are living today. This year in the United States, an estimated 1.2 million people will be diagnosed with cancer. Additionally, the disease will kill approximately 552,000 Americans - which means 1,500 people will die of cancer each day. This year in Hancock County, 206 people will be diagnosed with cancer and 86 will lose their lives to the disease.

For more information about participating in Relay For Life, call 1-800-ACS-2345 or www.cancer.org.

Shallow water closed Crab Trap Season nets more than 800 derelict crab traps

THE SEA COAST ECHO
The Mississippi Department of Marine Resources (DMR) recently wrapped up its 2004 closed season for crab traps and crab pots in shallow waters, held March 14, 2004 through April 3, 2004. This year, 856 derelict and abandoned crab traps were collected and recycled during the closed season by DMR and Gulf Coast Research Laboratory (GCRL) staff and volunteers.

This year's closed season was staggered, occurring for just one week in each of the three coastal counties. Volunteers removed 606 traps during the three volunteer cleanup days. In Jackson County, 13 volunteers in 5 vessels collected 343 traps. In Harrison County, 18 volunteers in 6 vessels collected 80 traps. In Hancock County, 23 volunteers in 7 vessels removed 183 traps from Mississippi's marine waters.

"We collected fewer traps and had increased participation, which is a good sign the program is working," said DMR Fisheries Biologist Traci Floyd.

Detailed data sheets filled out by volunteers identifying bycatch found in traps are being tallied by GCRL. Bycatch included blue crabs, stone crabs, sheepshead, striped mullet, ground mullet, catfish and flounder, many of which were released live.

During last year's closed crab season 1,429 traps were removed from Mississippi coastal waters and transported to a recycling facility. Since the program's inception, Nov. 4, 1999, more than 5,000 abandoned traps have been removed from Mississippi marine waters through the Mississippi Derelict Crab Trap Removal Program.

The Derelict Crab Trap Removal Program, a joint effort of the DMR and GCRL, is funded by a CIAP grant administered by the Mississippi Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ).

The Coastal Impact Assistance Program is a federally sponsored program that provides funding for addressing statewide coastal issues. Additional funding will come from the NOAA Community Based Restoration Program.

The Mississippi Department of Marine Resources is dedicated to enhancing, protecting and conserving marine interests of the State by managing all marine life, public trust wetlands, adjacent uplands and waterfront areas to provide for the optimal commercial, recreational, educational and economic uses of these resources consistent with environmental concerns and social changes. Mr. Keyes and (a family member), but he was not the one who struck the victim, causing him to fall, hitting his head."

According to the indictment, Corkern allegedly struck Keyes, causing him

Bay blanks SSC 4-0 on diamond

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

The Bay High Tigers used some drama from the first inning, a strong performance by Trevor Adam and effective pitching to shutout the St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws 4-0 on Thursday at Tiger Stadium.

Before a capacity crowd, the Tigers took the inside track to the fourth and final state playoff spot with the win. While the official participants for the state playoffs from Division 8 Class 4A have not been decided, the win gave the Tigers the inside track. Bay High improved to 11-10 and 5-5 while SSC dropped to 9-16 and 3-7.

Depending on what side you were on determined your reaction to the drama that unfolded in the first at-bat of the game. Lee Klein put the ball in play and raced down the baseline. There was a collision between Klein and Tiger first baseman Trevor Adam. The end result was an ejection for Klein. At that point, SSC head coach Mark Logan came out to argue the call and defend his player. However, in the end the head umpire ejected Logan. The other two Rock batters were retired in order to complete the top half of the inning.

Bay High got on the board in the bottom of the first inning when Trevor Adam ripped a double and scored on a past ball to give the Tigers a 1-0 lead.

In the second inning, the Rocks looked to be on the verge of scoring when Tim Kulikowski led off with a single followed by Brett Ladner's hit.

However, the pinch runner for Kulikowski was picked off by BJ Corr attempting to steal.

In the third inning, SSC's Dillon Drake led the inning off with a single to centerfield. However, he was picked off by Corr attempting to steal. It marked the second consecutive inning that Corr ended a Rock scoring chance.

In the bottom of the third inning, the Tigers added another run to go up 2-0. Robbie Pitre hit a single to centerfield to get on base. Adam followed with a hit to rightfield. Corr hit a sacrifice fly to score Pitre.

In the fourth inning, Corr left the mound for Bay High and moved to second base due to an injury. Cory Jordan came in to finish the job for the Tigers.

In the bottom of the fourth inning, the Tigers looked as though they were going to touch home plate several times.

Ryan Dedeaux led off with a double to right field. Justin Cook hit a sacrifice bunt to move Dedeaux over to the third. He scored on a past ball to make the tally 3-0.

Kulikowski walked three batters to load the bases full of Tigers. Then, he fanned Adam with the bases loaded to end the inning and pitch himself out of the jam. It was the only at-bat that Adam did not reach base for Bay High.

Dillon Drake got his second hit of the game and Lance Cuevas reached base for SSC in the top of the fifth inning; however, the Rocks were unable to capitalize.

In the sixth inning, Tyler Henry reached base on a single for SSC. Kulikowski hit a screamer to first base that was scooped up by Adam who touched the bag and threw down to second for a stellar double-play to end the inning.

Cory Jordan led the bottom of the sixth inning off with a walk for Bay High. Kevin Macuick was called on as a courtesy runner. He stole second and third. He scored on a sacrifice by Chris Billingsley to make the score 4-0.

Pitre tallied an infield hit and scored when Adam ripped a double on the next at-bat to make the final score 5-0.

Bay High head coach Mike Weems stated, "We came into the game feeling good about the baseball we had been playing recently. We did the little things right tonight like routine plays in the infield and putting the ball into play at the plate. The players were focused for this game. We had a big game from Trevor Adam that helped out and BJ Corr and Cory Jordan both battled on the mound tonight. I am proud of how they played tonight. They gave their best effort in front of a big crowd."

Trevor Adam went 3-for-4 with two RBIs. Others with multiple hits were Robbie Pitre and Ryan Dedeaux.

For the Rocks, Dillon Drake had two hits. Stace McRaney, SSC assistant baseball coach commented, "I thought we played hard tonight. We just didn't get the hits with runners on base. Tim Kulikowski battled hard in his complete game performance."

This week the Rocks have games against Gautier and Vancleave while Bay High is on the road at D'Iberville and Gautier.

In earlier action, the Rocks lost to D'Iberville 6-0 on Tuesday, April 6.

In softball action, the Bay High Lady Tigers defeated Picayune 13-4 behind Brittany Johnson's three hits and four RBIs. Tamara Reed also got two hits and an RBI for the playoff bound Lady Tigers (10-7).

In golf, the Biloxi Indians defeated the Hancock Hawks 337 to 393.

In high school tennis action, Gulfport defeated SSC/OIA 4-1. The only win for SSC/OIA was in mixed doubles when Chris Williams/Christine Bratton won over Jason Gaddy/Madeline Randall 6-2, 6-2.

Allison Zakaras defeated Megan Terrell 6-0, 6-2 in girls singles. In boys singles, Michael Guel defeated Eric Cranford 6-0, 6-0. Megan Maher/Mary Maher defeated Sarah Lolacano/Rachel Cranford 6-1, 6-2 in girls doubles. In boys doubles, Jeremy Taylor/Cliff Gaddy defeated Sam Hall/David Yapur 6-3, 6-0.

Memorial set Wed. for Mary Cecelia (Maurigi) Osso

Mary Cecelia (Maurigi) Osso was born November 26, 1921 in Bay St. Louis, Mississippi on the Gulf Coast, enjoying many long summer days on the white sandy beaches and in the cool gulf salt water. Momma and Poppa Maurigi raised their children with love and humor and instilled in Mary a passion for caring for the poor and afflicted in her hometown. She graduated from Bay High School in 1940 and using her passion, entered nursing school at Mobile City Hospital in Mobile, Alabama to become a Registered Nurse. She met her future husband, Anthony (Tony) C. Osso at a USO dance on the Air Force base where he was stationed before being deployed to the European Theater during World War II. After graduating in Mobile in 1944, Mary spent many years caring for her ailing mother, while working in her chosen profession. All this time, Tony courted her, proposing to her one moonlit evening in a telephone booth in the Bay. They were married on May 15, 1949 at Our Lady of the Gulf.

Mary and Tony returned to Hamilton, Ohio to raise two children, Anthony (Chuck) C. Osso II and Tina A. Osso. Once the children where in school, Mary returned to the work she loved at Fort Hamilton Hospital, where she worked before the kids came along. During her 30 years of nursing at Fort Hamilton she served as a staff nurse until being promoted to head nurse of Four South, where she hit her stride and became loved and respected by the hospital staff, doctors and the patients she cared for. After many attempts to promote her to the hospital administration, she finally accepted a promotion to nursing supervisor and created the first employee health office, where she worked until she retired in 1983. Mary touched many lives with her skill, based in love and tenderness. Long after she retired, people continued to recognize her and thank her for her help in their time of need. She was a quiet hero, always there when you needed her, always encouraging, always willing to help and always offering light when you felt at your darkest.

Mary passed away at Mercy Franciscan at Schroder on October 15, 2003, where she had resided since April of 2001. She was well loved by the staff and nurses at Schroder, some of whom she had trained during her tenure at Fort Hamilton. Even during her lengthy illness and infirmity, Mary kept her eyes on the nursing and CNA staff at Schroder, ever the supervisor, making sure they gave the best care possible.

Funeral services were held Friday, Oct. 24, with burial the following day at St. Mary's Cemetery.

Mary was the last of her generation in the Maurigi family, being preceded in death by her mother, Carolina (Federico) and father, Gasper Maurigi, brothers Manuel, Gasper and Russell and sister, Matilda. Her husband, Tony, preceded her in death on June 18, 1989. She leaves her loving children, Chuck and Tina, her grandson Monjoni A. Osso (who was her joy), and beloved nephews and nieces, Caroline (Randy) Adams, Manuel (Cyndee) Maurigi, Neilus (Joan) Rhodes, Doc (Karen) Rhodes, Gay (Oren) Lusich, Alice (Bobby) Boudin, Ross Maurigi, Ginger Maurigi, her brothers and sisters-in-law Leonard (Lucille) Osso, John and Josephine Osso in Hamilton, Ohio and numerous grand-nieces and nephews, most of whom still reside in Mississippi.

Mary's life will be celebrated with a memorial mass at St. Rose DeLima on Wednesday, April 14, 2004 at 11:00am.

Mississippi teams dominate Robotics Regional Competition

Five teams from Mississippi traveled to Houston, Texas, last week to challenge teams from the U.S., Mexico and Ecuador in the FIRST (For Inspiration and Recognition of Science and Technology) Robotics Lone Star regional competition.

NASA Stennis Space Center (SSC) has sponsored teams in the competition since 2000 and has helped each one get its start with the FIRST program. SSC offers grants to qualifying teams for their first two years of competition then offers mentorship and advice.

Offering the grant for two years gives teams the opportunity to build community support and find additional sponsorship.

SSC employees dedicated weeks of their time after work and on weekends to help teams design and construct robots for FIRST. Engineers shared their professional expertise with teams in the SSC area. SSC workers were essential to each team's success in FIRST regional competitions.

Participating NASA engineers were Roy Worthy, Scott Olive, Christine Powell, Bo Clarke, Jim Barnett and Michele Beisler.

Worthy, Olive and Mississippi Space Services engineer Allen Forsman served as mentors to the Pearl River/Picayune team, while Randy Greer of Lockheed Martin Space Operations programmed its robot. Powell, Clarke and Barnett assisted the Gulfport team. Beisler worked with a team from Pearl River, La.

Mississippi teams excelled at the FIRST (For Inspiration and Recognition of Science and Technology) Robotics Lone Star regional competition in Houston, Texas, last week, winning several awards. A robot built and controlled by students from Warren Central High School in Vicksburg hangs on a bar and lifts itself up to score 50 points for the team. Its alliance partner robot, controlled by students from Pearl River Central High School in Carriere and Picayune Memorial High School in Picayune is seen making its way onto the platform at left.

"To me, FIRST Robotics is all about opening doors for students," said Gulfport High School team mentor Powell. "This program builds engineers, scientists, and teachers. But it also builds explorers and leaders. I truly believe that those who will go to the Moon and to Mars will be FIRST alumni, and I can't wait to go along for the ride."

After six weeks spent designing and constructing their robots, the Mississippi teams and their mentors arrived in Houston last week anxious for the competition to begin.

Teams from Gulfport High School in Gulfport, Warren Central High School in Vicksburg, Provine High School in Jackson, Monroe County Vo-tech in Aberdeen, and a combined team of students from Pearl River Central High School in Carriere and Picayune Memorial High School in Picayune, participated in the Lone Star regional.

After the preliminary rounds, each of the five Mississippi teams earned a spot in an alliance to compete in the final rounds of competition.

The alliance that included the Gulfport High School team was victorious, with the runner-up award going to the Provine team.

Besides winning first- and second-place honors, the state's teams won several awards. The Pearl River/Picayune team won the Highest Rookie Seed Award, and Gulfport High School won the Johnson & Johnson Sportsmanship Award.

The Warren Central team took home both the Motorola Quality Award and the Delphi "Driving Tomorrow's Technology" Award for outstanding design and engineering.

Provine mentor Lender Luse was awarded the prestigious Regional Woodie Flowers Award and is now eligible for the National Woodie Flowers Award that will be presented at the FIRST national competition in Atlanta, Ga., later this month. The award is named for FIRST national adviser and Massachusetts Institute of Technology Professor Dr. Woodie Flowers and is given to an individual who has exhibited great dedication to mentoring and shaping a FIRST team.

Another Mississippi team, Choctaw Central High School from Choctaw, chose to travel to the Peachtree Regional in Atlanta, Ga., where they won a Judge's Award.

FIRST was founded by world-renowned inventor Dean Kamen and is meant to inspire students to explore science and technology fields.

Working side by side with engineers while learning principles of engineering and the FIRST principles of gracious professionalism and teamwork makes many participants consider new paths for their future.

Sedrick Johnson, a senior member of the Provine team, said he was planning to major in physical therapy in college, but because of his experience in the FIRST competition, he now plans to major in engineering.

Luse said she has seen this happen with many students who participate in FIRST. "It is an excellent program," she said. "It is a good opportunity for students to apply hands-on what they learn in the classroom. Many of our students plan to major in engineering and science."

For the past five years, SSC has seen continued growth and success with the FIRST program in Mississippi. With the future of space exploration relying heavily on robotic missions, programs like FIRST are considered valuable in helping inspire the next generation of explorers.

"We are so proud of how well these teams represent our state," said Wanda DeMaggio, pre-college/technology officer for the SSC Education Office. "It is exciting to see teams that we helped become involved with the program continue to be successful each year."

Every year, students who participate in FIRST are inspired to pursue careers in engineering and science and potentially a future with NASA.

NASA Stennis Space Center Propulsion Test Team wins Space Achievement Award

The Integrated Powerhead Demonstrator (IPD) Test Team at NASA Stennis Space Center (SSC) received a prestigious national award March 11 as recognition for a significant contribution to the U.S. space program.

IPD Project Manager Dr. Harry Ryan accepted a Stellar Award from the Rotary National Award for Space Achievement (RNASA) Foundation at its 18th annual National Space Trophy Dinner in Houston.

RNASA, established by the Space Center Rotary Club in 1985, selects team and individual winners based on accomplishments that hold the greatest promise for furthering activities in space. Nominations come from those who work in government and industry, members of professional organizations and individuals.

IPD component testing began at SSC in 1999 and recently completed two extensive turbopump testing projects at the E-1 Test Stand. The test series, completed in November 2003, was the culmination of a three-year effort of design, construction, activation and component test activities.

The IPD is a 250,000-pound thrust, liquid hydrogen-fueled engine, part of NASA's Next Generation Launch Technology program, which seeks to provide safe, dependable, cost-cutting technologies for future space launch systems. The IPD is designed not as a flight article, but as a way to acquire data through testing and to build technology for future engine

"It was a big project for us. It touched a lot of people, NASA and contractors alike. It was very much a joint effort between many, many parties, including the U.S. Air Force, Marshall Space Flight Center and the Boeing Company."

Harry Ryan, project manager

design.

The IPD is also part of the Department of Defense's Integrated High Payoff Rocket Propulsion Technology program, which seeks to double the performance and capability of today's state-of-the-art rocket propulsion systems while decreasing costs associated with military and commercial access to space.

"It was a big project for us," said Ryan, who took over as project manager in June 2002. "It touched a lot of people, NASA and contractors alike. It was very much a joint effort between many, many parties, including the U.S. Air Force, Marshall Space Flight Center and the Boeing Company."

The component testing benefited both the E-1 test facility and the IPD program, according to Ryan. "It tested the maximum capabilities of E-1," he said. "We gained a lot of experience and demonstrated that E-1 could do what it is designed to do. We acquired a lot of data that will lower the risk for the program and should reverberate through future designs. Lowering the risk is the whole point."

Now that component testing is complete, SSC engineers are preparing for engine systems testing at E-1, scheduled to begin this fall. The engine is currently being assembled at SSC.

Ryan, meanwhile, is beaming with pride about the project and the team after returning from the black-tie dinner, which was attended by more than 500 people. It was also the occasion for Apollo 11 Astronaut Neil Armstrong to receive RNASA's top award, the 2004 National Space Trophy Award. It is presented annually to an individual who has excelled in furthering national goals in the field of space.

"I was just thrilled to be there," Ryan said. "It is a great honor, and I don't know how to describe the 200 percent personal satisfaction I feel."

Survey says mosquitos most disliked, better streets most sought in Bay- Waveland

TEN YEARS AGO
April 3, 1994 - On going projects at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis will mean "continuous construction" for now, but it will also mean a bigger and better facility by the Fall of 1995, according to casino public relations director Len Giacano. Giacano said foundation construction of the first phase of a hotel with more than 400 rooms could begin in about 3-6 weeks. In December, Bay St. Louis city officials approved general site plans for Casino Magic to include construction of the hotel, golf course and additional parking.

After three months of testing the old depot grounds in Bay St. Louis have passed environmental muster. Mayor Eddie Favre said Tuesday the results clears the way for City Council to finalize purchase of the property and proceed with restoration plans.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

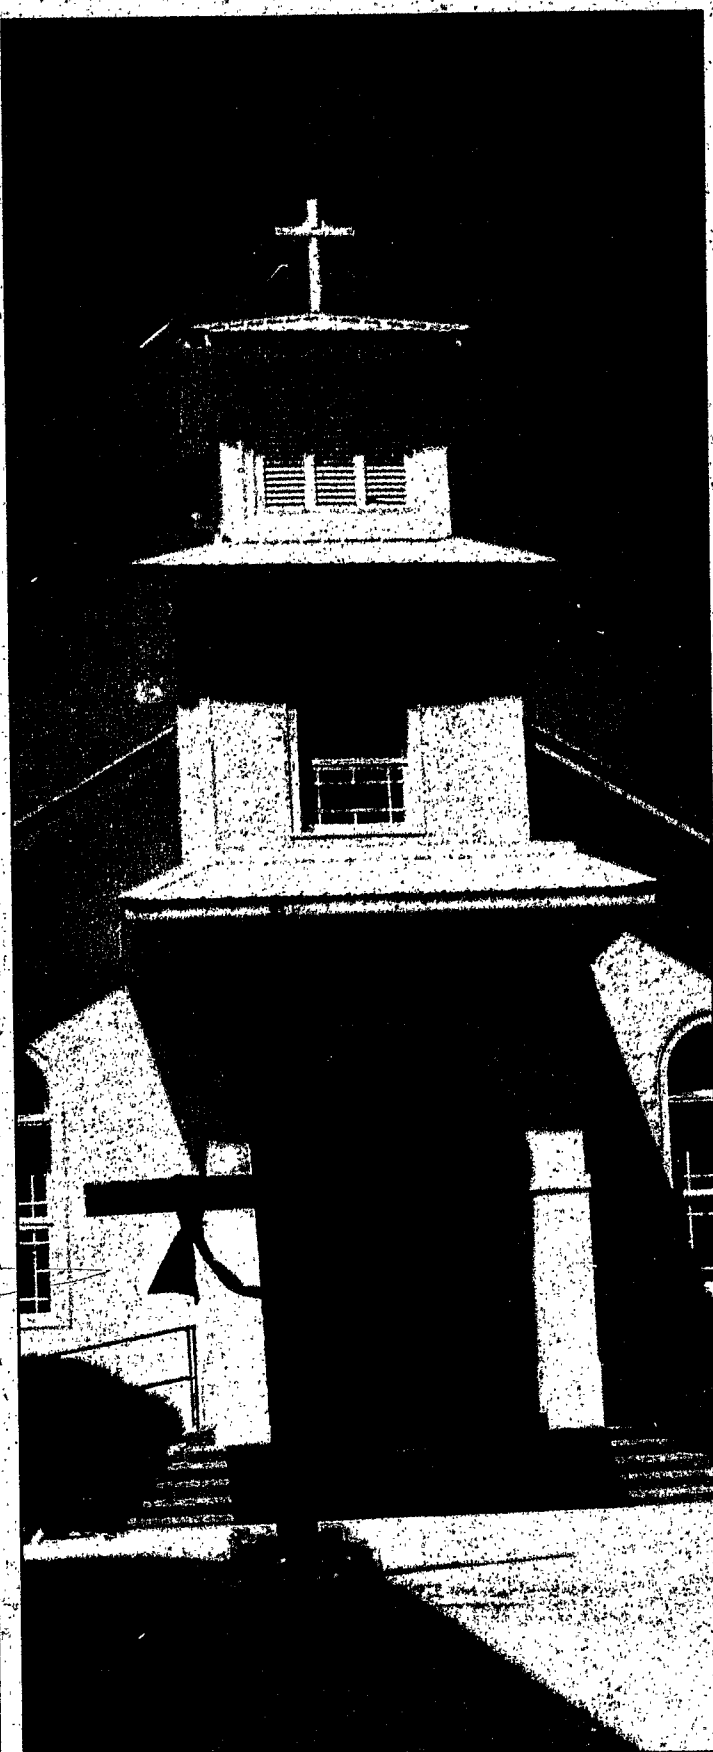

April 1, 1980 - Both the Democrats and Republicans in Hancock County have re-elected their former executive committee chairman at county conventions yesterday. Joseph H. Benvenuti was elected county chairman at the Democratic convention which convened Saturday morning, and James Rester was elected at an executive committee meeting following the Republican convention Saturday afternoon. The Democratic elected Hilda Secretary of their county executive committee and the Republicans re-elected Evelyn McPhail as secretary-treasurer.

Following a report that Hancock County's "in-house" property reappraisal program is on schedule, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors Thursday authorized plans to build a county assessor-tax collector building in Bay St. Louis. Edward Murtagh, Jr., the assessor-tax collector, said the in-house program has saved Hancock $500,000 compared to other county reappraisal efforts, many of which will not meet the scheduled July 1, deadline.

FORTY YEARS AGO

April 2, 1964 - Mosquitos, plus gnats, flies and other insects rank among the most disliked aspects of life in the Bay-Waveland area but better streets are the most sought items. That, at least, is the finding of the Bay St. Louis Jaycees in their community development survey of the two

THE Easter SPIRIT

All around town folks got into the spirit of the holiday weekend in their own way. Children at Gulfview Elementary School participated in a Crazy Easter Hat fundraiser for Relay for Life. Each participant in the contest contributed to the cause. At St. Clare they held a First Annual Beach Blast to celebrate the last day of school before Easter break. At St. Rose de Lima Catholic Church parishioners and members of the Knights of Peter Clavier held the last Friday observance of the Easter season. At St. Augustine Seminary the Stations of the Cross were celebrated on Friday afternoon.

Purple Majesty is an ornamental millet that is one of the most eye-catching plants of the 21st century.

As an All-America Selections Gold Medal winner last year, many gardeners were still too timid to let this plant really impress the neighbors.

Thousands of shoppers have seen it growing in past years at Northpark Mall in Jackson and wondered what it was. In the Northpark garden, it was used with cannas and elephant ears for a really unique, if not exotic, look.

You may be thinking there is no way you will put a grain in your landscape. But before you jump to conclusions, consider the botanical

Hancock DECA attends state career conference

The Hancock Vo-Tech Center's Lodging and Hospitality Distributive Education Club of America (DECA) had an impressive showing at the Mississippi DECA Career Development Conference held February 11-14 in Jackson.

With more than 650 students from across Mississippi competing in various events, Hancock's DECA had four state finalists. Taking top honors were Stephanie Gibson - 1st, Place in Food Marketing Research Event; Ashley Dickinson - 4th Place in Fashion Merchandising Promotion Plan; Kayla Summers - 4th Place in Entrepreneurship Written Event; and Miranda Rutherford - 6th Place in Business Services Marketing.

Stephanie Gibson will advance in competition to the International DECA Career Development

Conference in Nashville, Tennessee.

Other Hancock DECA competitors included Jessie Sherry in apparel and Accessories Management Level; Joseph Everett and Tyler Ball in E-Commerce; and Alicia Cain in Marketing Management. Desirae Green and Brandy Pace attended as voting delegates to assist in electing the 2004-2005 State Officer Team. Jessie Burch, Van Favre, and Sam Wilcox served as co-chairpersons for the decorating committee which helped with seating arrangements and decorations for the Award's Banquet.

During the two days of competition, students in competency and team events completed a 100-question test that evaluated the student's general knowledge in human relations, marketing, management, entrepreneurship, and industry specific skills. These students also participated in a role-play that involved not only problem solving and decision making but also presentation of those ideas to a judge. Prior to the actual conference, students competing in a written event researched and wrote a business promotional plan. This plan was then presented to a judge at the conference who evaluated the written manual and the student's explanation of the planned promotion. The sponsor of the Hancock DECA organization is Hancock Vo-Tech Lodging and Hospitality instructor Lady Bruce.

Hancock DECA attends Regional Conference

The Hancock Vo-Tech Center's Lodging and Hospitality Distributive Education Club of America (DECA) attended the Regional Career Development Conference on January 17 at Pearl River Community College in Poplarville. The competitors in each event took a written test and participated in an oral role-play with a judge. These two activities are combined and final score determines who will advance to the next level of competition. Thirteen students represented the Hancock School District in regional DECA competition with eight returning home as winners. Finalists included (pictured L to R) Jessie Sherry - Apparel and Accessories; Alicia Cain - Marketing Management; Tammy Ramsey - E-Commerce; Ashley Dickinson - Financial Services; Miranda Rutherford - Business Services; Kayla Summers - Financial Services; Tyler Ball - E-Commerce; and Stephanie Gibson - Food Marketing.

Weddings and Engagements

Thompson-Lamb

Emily Anne Thompson and Robert Duncan Lamb, both of Bay St. Louis, were united in marriage on Saturday, March 6, 2004. The evening ceremony, held at Saint Clare Catholic Church in Waveland, MS, was officiated by Monsignor James McGough.

The bride's parents are Rodney and Aimee Thompson of Bay St. Louis, and the groom is the son of Duncan and Jane Lamb of Bay St. Louis.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white, off the shoulder gown and chapel length train adorned with crystals and pearls. Her elbow-length veil attached to a crystal-and-pearl tiara. She carried a bouquet of pale pink calla lilies.

The matron of honor was Betsee Garcia of Pass Christian, and the maid of honor was Elysha Thompson of Bay St. Louis, both sisters of the bride.

Bridesmaids were Kristi Bordelon of Bay St. Louis, Duyen Lamb of Diamondhead, and Raven Monti of Mobile, AL. The attendants wore two-piece fuchsia dresses, each with a different top and an A-line skirt, and carried bouquets of white calla lilies. The flower girl was Natalie Garcia, niece of the bride.

She wore a hand-made, white lace dress brought home by the bride's grandparents from a trip to Sicily.

The best man was Billy Lamb of Diamondhead, brother of the groom.

Groomsmen were Dennis Bordelon, Jason Sandrock, and Cameron Schwartz, all of Bay St. Louis; and Jason Garcia of Pass Christian. Ushers were Greg Dupuy of Picayune and Charlie Buckley of Waveland. The ring bearer was Trae Bordelon, son of Dennis and Kristi Bordelon.

Selections from scripture were read by Hope Furr of Bay St. Louis and Kim LaFontaine of Brandon, MS, both cousins of the bride. Nuptial selections were provided by Alana Rutledge, pianist. Wedding bouquets and flowers were designed by Jutta's Wedding Bell's of Bay St. Louis.

The wedding reception was held at Our Lady of the Gulf Parish Hall in Bay St. Louis.

A rehearsal dinner was held the weekend prior to the wedding on a sunset-cruise aboard the Grand Casino's Grand Advantage II.

Prior to the wedding, several events were held to honor the couple. A couples cocktail shower hosted by the bride's family was held at the Bay St. Louis Train Depot in November, and a lingerie shower hosted by the bridesmaids was held at the home of Betsee Garcia, matron of honor, in January. The bride's co-workers hosted a luau for the couple in February. A kitchen-and-bath shower was hosted by Dottie Sjostrom, the groom's aunt, at her home in February.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Duncan Lamb

The couple spent two nights at the Beau Rivage Resort in Biloxi and will take a trip to Orlando after the construction of their home in Bay St. Louis is completed.

name of Purple Majesty, Pennisetum glaucum. You see, it is closely related to fountain grass, Pennisetum alopecuroides.

This species is native to the United States. As an annual, it thrives in our summer heat and produces dark purple leaves topped by equally dark, fruited plumes. They will stand out in gardens wherever they are planted.

Select a site in full sun for the showiest color. The bed should be fertile, organic-rich and well-drained.

Amend the soil if needed with 3 to 4 inches of organic matter and till to a depth of 8 to 10 inches. While preparing the soil, incorporate 2 pounds of a slow-release, 12-6-6 fertilizer per 100 square feet of bed space.

Plant at the same depth they are growing in the container with the crown slightly above the soil profile. Space plants 10 to 12 inches apart. Purple Majesty will get 4 to 5 feet tall, so place them accordingly in the flower border.

Because it is an annual and is easily grown from seed or transplants, it is possible to have successful plantings.

If you do this, either remove the old plants (transplants) and keep the fresh ones (seed) going, or plant them all together for a layered look of differing heights.

One of the key considerations to get the maximum beauty of the plant is to transplant to the garden before Purple Majesty gets root-bound in the container. This will improve its branching and therefore the number of blooms. Apply a good layer of mulch after planting.

Give a light application of the fertilizer a month after transplanting and again six to eight weeks later.

Keep the grass watered during the summer for the best appearance. Avoid letting it dry to the wilting point. The plumes, which are a lot like cattails, are great for using in vases or for drying.

One of the most spectacular beds I've seen used it with Prairie Sun rudbeckia planted in front of the Purple Majesty and then Blue Wave petunias in front of the Prairie Sun.

Purple Majesty will be a "must" plant for the new Southern landscape. You can plant it in the spring, summer or fall. Look for it now at your local garden center.

Bay St. Louis native releases his debut novel, 'Keeper of the Cross'

THE SEA COAST ECHO After authoring a number of books in the field of education and testprep, author and Bay St. Louis native Nathan Barber unveils his debut novel, Keeper of the Cross, which is a work of historical fiction.

Set during the Third Crusade, both on the sun-scorched plains of the Holy Land and in historic locations of a tumultuous England, Keeper of the Cross tells the story of a young crusader sent on a daring mission by Richard the Lionheart.

The book is published by Publish America of Frederick, Maryland.

Nathan Barber has written eight educational books in such areas as European history, U.S. history, reading, spelling, vocabulary development and test preparation; he has four additional educational projects forthcoming. He has also worked on several projects for Thomson Learning and Sparknotes. Barber graduated from Bay High School in 1989 and received a B.A. in history and social science from William Carey College in 1994.

Keeper of the Cross (ISBN: 1-4137-213-2) currently is available directly through the publisher and will be available through both bookstores and online booksellers in the coming weeks.

Barber can be contacted for book-signings or speaking engagements via email at nathan@nathanbarber.com.

The book follows a young English crusader named

Beck as he sets out on the adventure of a lifetime. After an encounter with Richard the Lionheart in the Holy Land, Beck returns to England with two objectives: safeguard two pieces of the True Cross and battle the treachery of Prince John until King Richard returns from the Crusade. Complicated by Richard's capture on the continent, Beck's objectives prove to be both elusive and perilous and Beck is forced to lay his life on the line, as well as the lives of those around him, if he is to succeed on his knight's errand. Set on the sun-scorched plains of the Holy Land in the midst of the Third Crusade and in an unstable England facing treachery at the highest levels, Keeper of the Cross is an epic tale of a common man attempting uncommon feats against all odds.

Barber teaches history and serves as Assistant Head of School at Vanguard College Preparatory School in Waco, Texas, where he lives with his wife and son. A graduate of William Carey College in Hattiesburg, Mississippi in 1994 with a degree in History and Social Science, Barber currently is enrolled in graduate school at Baylor University and is working on a masters degree in education.

New Orleans Opera comes to Diamondhead Country Club

The New Orleans Opera comes to Diamondhead Country Club on Sunday, April 18 with baritone Mark Rucker and mezzo-soprano Eugenie Grunewald.

When Mark Rucker sang Renato in Un ballo in maschera with Luciano Pavarotti for the Opera Company of Philadelphia, Opera magazine said of him, "If a star emerges in this performance his name is Mark Rucker. Here, Rucker sounds like a major addition to the ranks of genuine Verdi Baritone." As a winner of the second Pavarotti Competition in 1986, Mr. Rucker was seen not only in this production in Philadelphia, but also in the PBS telecast later that season.

Since then he has performed to high praise throughout North and South America, as well as in Europe and Asia.

Recent engagements include appearances with the Vancouver Opera, Florida Grand Opera, Atlanta Opera and sang the title role of Macbeth for Opera Carolina.

Mr. Rucker recently made his debut at Carnegie Hall in a concert version of Verdi's La Forza del destino.

With her rich powerful voice, Eugenie Grunewald is noted as one of America's finest mezzo-sopranos, particularly acclaimed for her thrilling performances of Amneris in AIDA and Azucena in II TROVATORE.

TORÉ.

Ms. Grunewald has appeared on opera and concert stages throughout this country and abroad. During the past season she appeared with the Hamburg Opera and the Teatro Real of Madrid.

A graduate of The Ohio State University, she has won numerous prestigious awards including the Enrico Caruso International Voice Competition.

ISAIAH LIVE IN 2004

"The Passion of the Christ" was too violent, too bloody!

The entire movie almost seemed to be violent for the sake and attraction of violence! This is a case of gratuitous violence without many redeeming features!"

Sundry clerics and laypersons have spoken in that vein. Worse, Father Andrew Greeley describes the movie as too gory, undesirable, presumably useless, hours of watching a man undergo gut-wrenching torture.

Guess what, folks. Those and similar critiques of the film are exact, but not in the way they were intended. While the blame is being laid on Mel Gibson and his movie, the real blame must be put on the passion itself.

Yes, the passion of Jesus the Messiah was certainly too violent. It was unthinkable that any ordeal of that kind should have happened. Truth to tell, Isaiah assured us 700 years before it happened that it would indeed happen with an ugliness and violence too horrible to put into adequate words.

"There was in him no beauty or comeliness to make us look at him. He was the reproach of men and the outcast of the people, a man of suffering, accustomed to infirmity, one of those from whom people hide their faces, spurned and we held him in no esteem." (Isaiah 53:2-3.)

The Good Friday liturgy goes on to describe the suffering Messiah, mainly through the words of Isaiah 53: "Yet it was our infirmities that he bore, our sufferings that he endured, while we thought of him as stricken, as one smitten by God and afflicted."

"But he was pierced for our offenses, crushed for our sins. Upon him was the chastisement that makes us whole; by his stripes we were healed. We had all gone astray like sheep, each following his own way; but the Lord laid upon him the guilt of us all."

"Though he was harshly treated, he submitted and opened not his mouth. Like a lamb led to the slaughter or a sheep before the shearers, he was silent and opened not his mouth."

"Oppressed and condemned, he was taken away — he was cut off from the land of the living and smitten for the sin of his people. A grave was assigned him among the wicked and a burial place with evildoers, though he had done no wrong; nor spoken any falsehood."

Psalm 22:7 picks up the theme of the suffering Messiah: "But I am a worm, hardly human, scorned by everyone,

Reflections on Life
by Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD despised by the people. All who see me mock me; they curl their lips and jeer; they shake their heads at me."

"They have pierced my hands and my feet; they have numbered all my bones. They stare at me and gloat; they divide my garments among them; for my clothing they cast lots."

If you walk in to view "The Passion of the Christ" thinking you are sober, you will walk out telling yourself, "I only thought I was sober." No wonder a neo-Nazi in Germany turned himself in as an evildoer after experiencing "The Passion of the Christ." It is also impressive in the U.S.A. that a murderer and a robber/killer turned themselves in after the movie.

As we read in Luke 6:44, "Every tree is known by its own fruit." Let the critics and all realize that the fruits of the movie are sober meditations on one's own sinfulness, self-confessions during the showing of the movie, an incredible amount of God-talk, and striking conversions of hardened sinners.

If nothing else happened but the above-mentioned fruits, The Passion of the Christ would be more than worth the time, effort, money and extensive human resources which went into its conceiving, producing and delivering.

But poetic justice and God's providence would have it that Mel Gibson would produce and direct this movie without being able to rely on those human resources which one would seek out as unexpendable.

Yes, his own Hollywood peers refused any help, but rather offered acid and frequent criticisms, supposedly based on anti-Semitism. Frankly, it is obvious that the real reason for rejection was their selfish professional envy.

Apparently vowing to make Mel an example for having the gall to make such a powerfully faith-based movie, Hollywood unwittingly fulfilled Psalm 118:22: "The stone which the builders rejected has become the cornerstone."

God always operates that way, using the rejected, the helpless and the weak to accomplish great things through his grace, even as the rejected Messiah was salvation history's unique instrument of eternal life.

Thus, Hollywood will go down in history as the stonewallers, the stumbling blocks, the advocati diaboli in the dramatic enactment of the Passion of the Christ and all the good which it has brought to the world.

Thank God for Mel Gibson and for all the people who collaborated with him to bring to us all that special gift: The Passion of the Christ.

Scripture Says . . .

By Ed Young

Why all the weeping and asking the man from Egypt, who came to Jerusalem for the Passover. He was told that three men have been crucified, two criminals and a so-called king.

The man asked; what do you mean, a so-called king? Well, He said His Father was God, and He was the Son of God. He also said He was the Messiah. John 4:26.

Well, than if He is who He says, He is a King, where is His army and nation? The man from Egypt had a smile on his face.

Suddenly the ground began to shake and fear swept throughout the city. Someone shouted graves were being opened and people were coming out of them and walking and appearing to many. Matt. 27:52. The visitor from Egypt, smile turn to astonishment.

With in a hour darkness cover all of Judah. Thunder rolled across the sky for at least three hours. The city of Jerusalem was silent. The man from Egypt began to have second thoughts about this Jesus of Nazareth. He began to inquire about Jesus' teachings and His knowledge of the scriptures. Found that this Nazarene knew the Word of God thoroughly.

By now several days have passed; the city seem to be returning to normal. However, people in the market place were talking about the grave site where the Nazarene was laid. The large stone was rolled aside and the tomb was empty.

The Egyptian man was confused about what he had heard that Jesus was alive. He ponder what did all of this mean?

Little did that man know he was in the city, that experienced the greatest event ever. He is Risen, He is Risen, indeed.

The "Word" for the Week Resurrection of Christ

Dennis J. Prutow • Box 303, Sterling, MS 38779

I'm sick and tired of people saying we cannot prove the resurrection.

Listen to how one pastor showed there is valid evidence. One Easter morning he stood in the pulpit and read from 1 Corinthians 15, the resurrection passage.

Everyone had noticed the little jar of water on the pulpit. They wondered about the lone flower in that jar.

Well, as the pastor was reading the scripture lesson, everyone was jarred awake. With wide eyes and disbelief, they saw the pastor take the flower in his hand. As he continued through the Bible passage he took pieces of the flower, put them in his mouth, chewed, and swallowed.

When the Bible reading was over, the flower was gone. Now the pastor said, "Suppose, as you go out of church this morning, you stop a passerby. You say to that person, 'Guess what our pastor did this morning, while he was reading the Bible, he ate a flower!'" What would be the reaction of that person who just happened by? That person would say you're crazy and hustle on down the street.

But now suppose there are 500 people here who saw me eat that flower. They all go out and tell that same passerby what I did. Would he believe 500 people? It would be very hard to deny 500 eyewitnesses.

Then this pastor reminded his congregation, quoting from 1 Corinthians 15, that after the resurrection, Jesus Christ "appeared to more than five hundred brethren at one time." When Paul wrote these words, you could still go and talk to most of those people. Is this sufficient evidence? To convict a person of a crime, you only need one or two eyewitnesses. Surely 500 eyewitnesses validate the resurrection.

Checking in with Kristin Lehman

By Jacqueline Cutler

Kristin Lehman plays a genetically engineered human in CBS' new Tuesday-night legal drama, "Century City."

Until recently, she played Dr. Lily Reddicker in "Judging Amy," the take-no-prisoners head of a strapped hospital. "They wrote Lily off to another hospital," she says. Good thing, too, since "Century City" leads into "Judging Amy."

"That show was a blessing to do," she says of "Amy." "I really, really love that show. It has affected so many people. Out of everything I have ever done, people come up to me and say how much they enjoy it."

Lehman is equally enthusiastic about her new gig. The first six episodes of the series, set in a law office in 2030, have been shot, and the cast is waiting to hear about next season. For now, Lehman is auditioning, and hanging out with her two dogs.

"I just finished an audition," she says, calling from her car. Later, trying to recall what may have been her worst audition, she cites the one she just left. "As an actor, 90 percent of your job is auditioning," Lehman says. "If you can't do it for yourself, then it is very, very difficult."

A classically trained ballerina, she quit dance after injuring her ankle. She always knew the stage was her calling, and has worked as an actress for only 10 years.

Her latest goal, she says, "is to continue becoming more emotionally available in my personal life, and have that influence my professional life. As I continue to explore my creative life, that opens up horizons I didn't even know were there. I know with that attitude and that perspective, vast and important and exciting work is there for me."

Hometown: Vancouver, British Columbia.

How she handles those exquisite tresses: "I've got really good people that look after my hair," she says. "And I wear extensions for that role. If I am going to be genetically modified, they would have given me good hair."

Hollywood gossip: "Ninety percent of Hollywood actresses are wearing hair extensions. My friend who puts them in says, 'Darling, it is your hair. You paid for it.'"

Film credits: "The Way of the Gun"; "Dinner at Fred's."

TV credits: "Go Fish"; "Strange World."

Best dish she cooks: "Moroccan shrimp pasta. I love making birthday cakes. I was a vegan for a long time, and I make a mean chocolate raspberry cake."

Hopeless cases make huge strides

By Jacqueline Cutler

Joy Veron nearly sacrificed herself to save her children. They were standing in the front seat of her stopped SUV when it started to go over a cliff. Veron threw herself onto the car. Her children were saved, but she was crushed.

Left paralyzed from the waist down, Veron had many medical problems. Until recently, there was no hope she would regain mobility or sensation below the waist.

Now there is, and it is explained in PBS' "Innovation" Tuesday, April 13. As remote as medical research is to the general public, this documentary connects what sounds like science fiction to the reality of those suffering. Still, it is rather dull, though viewers likely will learn from it.

After explaining her accident, Veron says, "The whole life I knew was gone." Now she may reclaim some independence and mobility.

This episode, "Miracle Cell," focuses on controversial stem cell research. Stem cells manufacture and repair the 200 different types of cells that make up the human body.

Controversy has swirled around this research because some stem cell research is done with fertilized human eggs. However, the documentary focuses on using cells harvested from the patient's nose and injected into broken spinal cords. Formerly paralyzed patients are experiencing improvements aided by intense physical therapy.

Veron and others featured in the documentary travel to Lisbon, Portugal, for the surgery, which is shown here, but viewers need not cringe - network medical dramas show more blood than this.

Doctors from Portugal and Germany, who use stem cells to treat heart attack patients, talk about improvements in patients' lives.

Trump finally tells apprentice 'You're hired'

By Jacqueline Cutler
© Zap2it

People who would sooner attempt home dentistry than watch reality shows are hooked on NBC's "The Apprentice."

Sure, millions indulge in schadenfreude watching the lovesick-debase themselves for romance or money on dating shows. Countless others find watching contestants gag on pig uteri amusing. Yet the legions who find nothing entertaining about humiliation or revulsion shunned reality shows until Jan. 9, when "The Apprentice" premiered and "You're fired" became a catch phrase.

After three months of tasks that ranged from setting up a lemonade stand to renovating apartments, the winner hears "You're hired" in a special two-hour episode Thursday, April 15. One hour has already been shot, and one hour will air live from NBC's "Saturday Night Live" studio.

A few weeks before the much-heralded finale, host Donald Trump acknowledged that Troy McClain, the folksy fellow from Boise, Idaho, is "very, very close" to being the lucky party. Still, Trump says, "I don't have an inkling yet" of who the apprentice will be.

Naturally, viewers tune in to see who gets sacked weekly, but the lure is far greater than the elimination process. Part of what keeps people watching is that it is easier to relate to than most reality shows. Not everyone wants to live in primitive conditions or climb into a hot tub with strangers, but viewers can figure out how they would accomplish the tasks.

Inevitably, viewers liken contestants to people they know. Every office has someone convinced she is superior to everyone (Omarosa Manigault-Stallworth), someone who confuses being wild with being a risk taker (Sam Solovey) and someone with a limited but foul vocabulary (Heidi Bressler). Many offices are filled with people who make about as much of an impression as a ghost walking in sand (the others).

For these reasons and because people crave glimpses into the lives of the ultra wealthy, "The Apprentice" became the No. 1 new program of the season. It helps that the one-hour show airs on NBC's stronghold night, Thursdays, but repeats of the previous week on Wednesdays also do quite well.

It is the No. 3 overall series, tied with "Friends" in the most coveted demographic group of 18-to-49-year-olds, according to Nielsen Media Research.

Even Trump is surprised by its success, though creator Mark Burnett, the impresario behind "Survivor," says he expected as much.

"There was no reason to believe, if I did my very best work on 'The Apprentice,' it wouldn't do well," Burnett says from his Los Angeles office. "It has good story telling and good characters, which are the essence of all entertainment. Think about the cave-men days around the fire, then Shakespeare, books, plays, TV and movies - all the great ones have a great story. Therefore, why should unscripted ones be any different?"

The characters on the show range from street-savvy youth to responsible physicians. Trump says he is most surprised by "how brilliant they are and how fast they do tasks," and taken aback by "what mistakes they made." Despite the billionaire's business successes, Trump is a newcomer to TV stardom, and as such says, "I love to watch it on tape before the show airs, but I get a bigger kick watching it on television with the commercials." Why? "It's cool."

Natty in a navy suit, Trump leans back in a leather chair, a panoramic view of New York framing his cantilevered coif, and says of this success, "It's so different from real life, I'm enjoying it." A staffer presents him with a Bloomingdale's ad for pink tank tops emblazoned with "You're fired," a phrase the opportunistic businessman is trying to trademark.

"The Apprentice" has elevated Trump to the media pedestal usually reserved for talent and clothing-optional divas. His offices, high in the glitzy Fifth Ave. Trump Tower, are decorated with framed magazine covers and newspapers featuring the man who has never been camera-shy. The first copies of his latest book, "How to Get Rich," are on a corner of his cluttered, computerless desk.

Even compared to Trump's past successes, the response to the show is astounding. Scores of people slept on the streets of Manhattan - during a snowstorm - to audition for next season's show. Thousands queued up at audition sites around the country, and after the application was online for five weeks, 710,275 people downloaded it. For the first show, 215,000 applied, then a record.

Amid all the frenzy, it may be easy to forget what everyone is vying for: a $250,000-a-year position as a vice president in a Trump company. For the record, NBC pays the salary, and there is no guarantee beyond a year.

Depending on the person's abilities, he or she will work in one of Trump's 92 companies, which employ 200 vice presidents. How much real responsibility will he bestow upon the winner? "It is not a total entrustment," Trump says. "This has been a grueling interview process. Normally, I hire a person in 20 minutes. These people are put through hell."

'Happy' son a veteran of improv comedy

By Taylor Michaels

Q Please tell me about the actor who plays the oldest son on NBC's "Happy Family." I know I have seen him before, but I can't place him! -Karen Avila, Thiells, N.Y.

A Jeff Davis, 30, is best known for his work in improvisational comedy and has appeared several times on "Whose Line Is It Anyway?" as well as the short-lived sketch comedy shows "On the Spot" and "The Downer Channel." When his schedule permits, he tours the United States with Drew Carey and "The Improv All Stars" and has been a part of two USO tours.

Q Can you tell me anything about the theme song to "Cold Case"? I find the melody very haunting, but I haven't been able to track it down. -Katie Otto, Lake Mills, Wis.

A A group called E.S. Posthumus, which fuses classical, electronica, world music and hard rhythms into their pieces, has been turning up more and more in movie trailers for such films as "Spider-Man," "Planet of the Apes" and "Minority Report," because many of the group's evocative compositions sound as if they had been written for the screen.

The theme to "Cold Case" is "Nara," a song from an E.S. Posthumus compact disc called "Unearthed." If you have trouble finding this title in your local music store, you can order it online from the band's Web site, <http://esposthumus.com> (click on the "buy" link). If it's out of stock, you can be e-mailed when the CD is available again.

Q What did "U.N.C.L.E." stand for in "The Man From U.N.C.L.E." and what was the name of Robert Vaughn's character? If he is still alive, what is he doing these days? -J.S., Wauwatosa, Wis.

A Napoleon Solo (Vaughn) was an agent for the United Network Command for Law and Enforcement, a covert agency dedicated to fighting an international crime syndicate called THRUSH.

Like his former "U.N.C.L.E." co-star, David McCallum of "Navy NCIS," Vaughn, now 71, continues to enjoy an active career, although he tends to specialize in playing cold-blooded, power-hungry weasels or other villains these days. He recently appeared in "2 B Perfectly Honest," an ensemble movie comedy awaiting general release, as well as a UK limited series crime drama called "Hustle."

'Extreme Makeover: Home Edition' creates dreams on a deadline

By Kate O'Hare
© Zap2it

It's day six of a seven-day renovation project in Ventura County, Calif., for the ABC series "Extreme Makeover: Home Edition."

The goal, as in all the episodes of the Sunday-night show - which premiered with a special last December - is to utterly transform the house of a deserving family in one week, including design, demolition, construction and decorating.

But at this point, the goal looks like a soggy pipe dream. A week of rain has turned the yard into a sea of slop, crisscrossed by plank walkways and only partially restored to a garden-by-landscape designer Dawson Connor.

A day away from the return of the family, the interior of the house is a confusing morass of wires, cables, workers in blue T-shirts (with more than a few neighbors and friends mixed in), half-finished walls, lumber and power tools.

As the rain fades to sprinkles, designer Michael Moloney is having a moment.

"Right now," he says, "it's day six. We have 26 hours left, and I am freaking out. Construction's done, but we've had heavy, heavy rains - the back yard, you wouldn't believe it if you saw it. I should have this house turned over to me by about four, five o'clock today, at the latest, but there's no carpet, there's one coat of paint on the walls. It's major."

Somehow, though, it will all get done. "This is the most nerve-wracking day, today," Moloney says. "You walk in, it doesn't look finished, but mysteriously, thanks to these guys, the next day, it's done. I know that will happen, but right now ... it looks like a mess."

Host Ty Pennington ("Trading Spaces") is off doing double duty on a second construction site near Palm Springs, but joining Moloney and Connor in Ventura are designer/architect Constance Ramos, who looks remarkably (and perhaps, deceptively) put-together in the midst of the chaos, and carpenter Paul DiMeo, who is proudly spattered with workingman mud.

"It's all fun, it really is," DiMeo says, taking a brief lunch break in a neighbor's front yard. "There are times when it's not so fun, but for the most part, I'm living the dream. This must be what an angel feels like."

Thus far, "EM:HE" has given dream homes to a family with a child with cancer, a hard-working single mother, a family whose home-renovation dreams were stopped when the father was sent to war in Iraq, a dedicated minister, parents of two facing the arrival of triplets, and a flooded-out community activist.

"We're not putting the screws to somebody," DiMeo says. "We're not kicking somebody off an island. We're doing something good for a family that's in need. To me, that's the fun of it, that's the angel part of it."

Angels or not, getting a house done in the time and budget allotted takes a lot of help from earthly sources, whether it's contractors cutting fees or donating materials, or helpful local officials.

"We approach the city," producer Craig Armstrong ("Survivor") explains, "and we ask them to join us in what we're trying to do. So usually the mayor or the city council people will come in and see what we're doing and understand it. Once they sign off on it, they get an inspector to be here 24 hours a day for seven days. They say, 'You've got the guy on-site, which doesn't happen normally.'

"These guys are on top of each other. We've got contractors and subcontractors, all working together. As soon as one's done, another starts. He can say, 'That's good,' then we can go on to the next thing."

Unlike Pennington's other show, "Trading Spaces," which can end with homeowners either loving or hating their redecorated rooms, the goal of "Extreme Makeover: Home Edition" is to give families what they want - along with practical improvements they may never have considered possible.

In this particular episode, set to air in late April or May, the goal is to make the house accessible for a disabled family member, and that also extends to outdoor spaces.

"I've got to turn it into more than a yard," says Connor, standing ankle-deep in mud before a pair of freshly planted sequoia trees. "I've got to turn it into a beautiful landscape. I am for an oasis. This family's been through a lot."

Inevitably, the family cries upon viewing the transformed house, but that's only the culmination of a week of tears during filming.

For example, consider the sequoias. Connor recalls, "I started talking about how people plant trees as the start of something new, the birth or death of a loved one. Then I started realizing what I was saying, and this woman who's my director starts, tears coming out of her face. I'm like, 'What are you doing to me?' Then I start crying, because I think, 'This is the beginning for this family.'

Ty Pennington ("Trading Spaces") is ringmaster to a flurry of home renovations on "Extreme Makeover: Home Edition" Sundays on ABC.

"So when we planted Anastasia the sequoia and her little sister, it's a new beginning for them."

"There's been times when we changed it so much," Armstrong says, "that they walk into the rooms, and if it wasn't for us saying, 'There's your room,' they would have no clue where to go. It's true!"

While fighting fatigue, the budget, the elements and the deadline may not sound like fun, Moloney - like DiMeo before him - insists it is.

"It's brutal, and it's fun at the same time. We got thrown into this when we started the pilot episode, and nobody knew each other. Now it's a really tight-knit group. It's just an amazing group of people, from the top all the way down.

Jamie Foxx seeks 'Redemption' in new FX movie

By Kate O'Hare
© Zap2it

On Sunday, April 11, FX premieres "Redemption," in which the usually comic Jamie Foxx takes an impressive dramatic turn as Stanley "Tookie" Williams.

Williams was the co-founder (with Raymond Lee Washington) of the Crips street gang in South Central Los Angeles in 1971. A decade later, Williams was convicted of the murders of four people and sent to death row at San Quentin.

In 1987, Williams began a six-and-a-half year stay in solitary confinement, during which he underwent an inner transformation that eventually led to his nominations for two Nobel Prizes, one for peace and one for literature.

Foxx says, "Here's a guy that, born into a different life, would be running a company or something. But born black, living in Los Angeles, Calif., you understand how you could fall prey (to crime). There were no opportunities. There was no way for him to drive a nice car, live in a big house, unless he created what he did."

"All these tragic things happened to him, he told me ... then to see that flower bloom up. That's what's great about this project. Here's a guy who thinks, every single day, 'I'm going to die.' So he finally questions himself, 'If you had one day to live, what would you do?'

Directed by Vondie Curtis-Hall, the surprisingly low-key "Redemption" briefly flashes back to Williams' life as a Louisiana boy struggling to survive on the L.A. streets, giving a sketchy account of how he became a top gangster while a teenager.

As shown in the film, while in solitary, an older inmate gives Williams books and inspires the gang member to educate himself. In time, Williams renounces his gangster ways, and feels as if he needs to make up for the pain and suffering he caused as well as the Crips' bloody legacy, now spread nationwide.

Enter journalist Barbara Becnel (Lynn Whitfield), who comes to San Quentin to interview Williams for a history book about the Crips. Instead, he recruits her to help him write and publish a series of children's books aimed at steering young people away from violence and the gang lifestyle.

"Barbara Becnel actually went to prison expecting to get reportage that was not in favor of this man," Whitfield says. "Twenty-three years (on death row) is a very, very long time. Our system is set up to give people a chance to rehabilitate themselves - supposedly."

"So, in going, she realized that this man had begun to feed himself, intellectually and spiritually, to the point that he was a changed being."

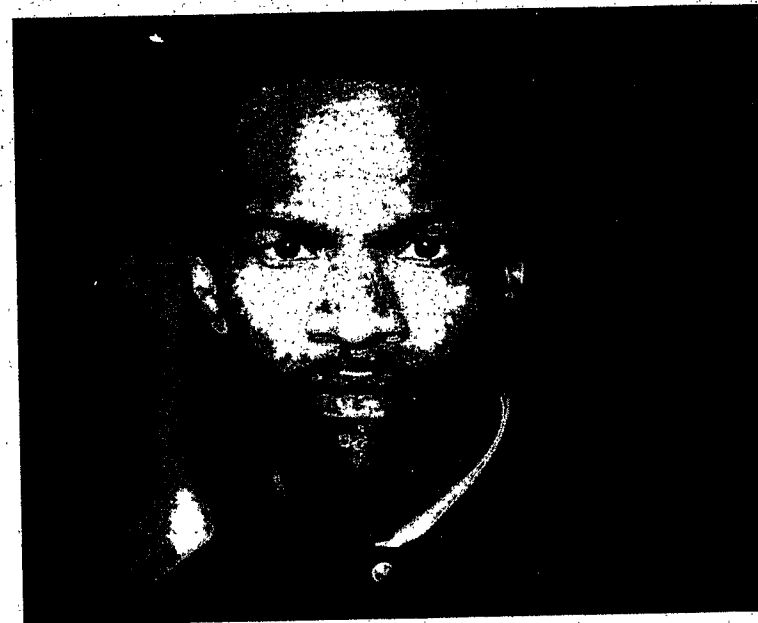

Foxx also hopes that Williams' story inspires young people-facing the former gangster's fate to seek opportunities they may never have considered before.

"They feel there is no way out," he says. "They're still believing in the boogie man. It's about giving a kid an opportunity for an alternative, to be decent. Everybody wants to be decent, but indecent things happen to us. Depending on where you are, you have to deal with it."

Ironically, Williams may never see "Redemption."

"He hasn't seen it," executive producer Rudy Langlais says, "and it's likely that he never will. There's no ability within the prison for him to see the film. It's not going to be broadcast in the prison."

"And Stan Williams is possibly within a year of facing his last possible appeal. The last one may be the governor of the state. But in terms of time, he's now down to about a year away from possible execution."

Jamie Foxx turns to the dramatic side by starring as Stan "Tookie" Williams, the co-founder of the Crips street gang who, while on death row, launched a campaign to steer children away from gangs and violence.

'SportsCenter' meant aloha to Hawaii for Everett

By George Dickle
© Zap2it

He'll never be confused with Jack Lord, but ESPN's Neil Everett does have one trait in common with the "Hawaii Five-O" character Lord portrayed.

They both end conversations with "aloha."

Though he grew up in Washington state, went to school in Oregon, and is now experiencing his greatest professional success in Connecticut as an anchor on "SportsCenter," Everett's heart is in the 50th state, the result of having spent 15 years there.

Everett had just concluded his sophomore year at Willamette University in Salem, Ore., when he paid his first visit to the Aloha State. "After my sophomore year in college, I went over to Hawaii for the summer and said, 'This is it! I'm going to go back and graduate, and then I'm going to move to Hawaii and I'm going to be a bartender and a disc jockey.' That was my goal."

True to his plan, he came back, earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Oregon, and headed back to the islands. Only, instead of serving drinks and spinning hits, Everett worked as a reporter at KGMB-TV in Honolulu and as a sports information director and assistant athletic director at Hawaii Pacific University. "I was in athletic administration in Hawaii more than I was in television," Everett explains. "I did television more as a sideline for two reasons: to supplement my income and because I enjoyed the writing part of it."

Despite working two jobs, Everett says life in Hawaii was idyllic. The weather was great, the people were friendly, and the Pacific Ocean was less than 100 yards from his window. There was absolutely no reason to leave - that is, until serendipity struck.

"A friend of mine who played basketball at the school I worked at in Hawaii who moved to New York met a guy in New York who was a manager/agent," Everett recalls. "He said, 'You should check out this guy in Hawaii. He's really funny or he's whatever.'"

"So this guy called me up and said, 'I'd like to represent you.' And I said, 'I live in Hawaii. There's really nothing you can do for me.' I didn't have any ambition to go anywhere else. And so then I kind of just reached for the highest rung on the ladder and said, 'I'll tell you what: If you can get me an interview at ESPN, you can represent me.' He said, 'Send me a tape.' I sent him a tape. He got me the interview, and eventually I got the job."

The process wasn't quite that easy, taking about two years in all. "It actually was quite a process because my first interview audition, I was awful," Everett says. "We didn't do a lot with national sports in Hawaii, so I didn't have as good a grasp as I needed to to cut it at ESPN."

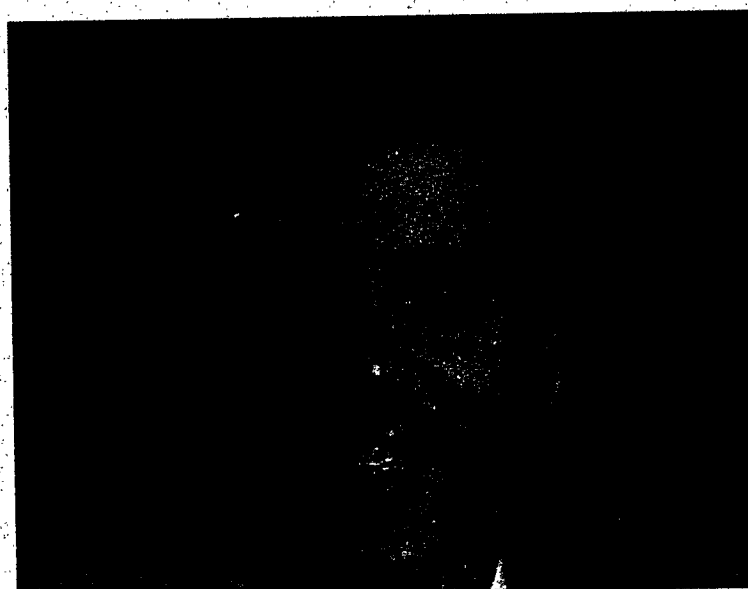

He also wasn't all that familiar with "SportsCenter." "Not to the great extent that one might think of somebody that's in this job," Everett says. "I'm not a big TV watcher, especially in a place like Hawaii. You're not sitting inside for six or seven months out of the year like you are here. So anyhow, I was awful and really left with my tail between my legs because I'd really blown the golden opportunity. Fortunately a year later, they called me back to come again. ... I auditioned again and it was not for another whole year that I got the job."

Even though he misses Hawaii, he is enjoying his time at ESPN, where in July he will mark his fourth anniversary. "When I moved to Hawaii, it was like moving to another country," Everett says. "And when I moved to New England, it was like moving to another country. So, you have to enjoy whatever journey you're on or you're shorting yourself."

"I mean, nobody's forcing me to be here," Everett continues. "It's a very interesting area. The weather is ridiculous here. Last year, there was no summer. I mean, last year there was about a month of nice weather, so the payoff is fairly sketchy to me so far. There are a lot of things to do here that are fairly interesting. There's a lot of history here. It is what it is. I've been to Cape Cod and New York. I've been to Boston. I've been to plays. I've done a lot of things I wouldn't be able to do in Hawaii. So I'm enjoying the experience."

Just don't expect him to stick around when his "SportsCenter" stint is up. "I call Hawaii home," Everett says. "That's where I'll lay my hat when it's all said and done."

"Golf" Sunday, April 11 (CBS, 2:30 p.m. ET): The best part about Augusta National's stringent policies? For golf fans, it's the club's refusal to allow corporate sponsors for the Masters, which means today's final round will air commercial-free. You'll see all the clutch shots down the stretch, most of which fell for Mike Weir a year ago, enabling the Samia, Ontario, native to become his country's first Masters champion.

"NBA Basketball" Sunday, April 11 (ABC, 3:30 p.m. ET): The Sacramento Kings get a chance to respond in their final regular-season meeting against the Los Angeles Lakers before a possible playoff clash. No doubt fresh in the Kings' minds is the 115-91 beating the Lakers handed them three weeks ago, when Kobe Bryant (36 points, six rebounds and six assists) and Shaquille O'Neal (17, 16, 6, respectively) led the barrage. L.A. used a 25-1 first-quarter run and a 17-1 third-quarter spurt to put Sacramento away.

Davis Love III defends his title.

The Sopranos

In a bid to ensure A.J.'s (Robert Iler) prospects for the future, Carmela (Edie Falco) pays special attention to his college adviser (David Strathairn) in the new episode "Sentimental Education." The effort pays off, since A.J. takes a new view of his family. Tony B. (Steve Buscemi) runs into difficulty upon venturing into uncharted business territory.

8:30 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

Arrested Development

The Bluths finally get some of their frozen funds freed up in the new episode "Whistler's Mother." Everyone in the family has his or her own idea for using the money, with the ultimate decision in Michael's (Jason Bateman) hands. Lindsay's (Portia de Rossi) war protest has an unusual outcome. Michael feels Lucille (Jessica Walter) enables Buster's (Tony Hale) behavior too much.

9 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Alias

Vaughn (Michael Vartan) refuses to believe Sydney and Jack's (Jennifer Garner, Victor Garber) hunch that Lauren (Melissa George) is a traitor in the new episode "Unveiled." Bomani (guest star Djimon Hounsou, "In America") starts to have his own doubts about Lauren as he teams with Sark (David Anders) over the latest wrinkle in the Rambaldi mystery.

CBS brings Valene back from 'Knots Landing'

By Paulette Cohn
© Zap2it

Joan Van Ark, Valene Ewing on CBS' nighttime soap "Knots Landing," returned to the network last week to play Gloria Fisher in "The Young and the Restless."

Gloria is the mother of half-brothers Kevin Fisher (Greg Kinnear) and Michael Baldwin (Christian LeBlanc). She abused Kevin as a kid, the reason he's a sociopath today. Expect lots of explosive scenes between these three. (This is not Van Ark's daytime debut. She played Janene Whitney in "Days of Our Lives" in the 1970s.)

You could call equestrienne extraordinaire Lauren Koslow (Kate Roberts, "Days of Our Lives") the "Mrs. Fields" of the OK Corral. Away from the soap, Koslow and her hubby, make-up artist Nick Schillace, have a business called House of Green Stables, which caters to the horsey set. Among the products they sell are horse cookies, treats made with all human-grade ingredients. They're available in equestrian saddle shops in Southern California. Or mosey over to Lauren's Web site <http://www.GreenStables.com> and order those goodies directly for your own "Mr. Ed."

Dear Paulette: What happened to the best-looking guy on TV (those eyes) who played Ben on "Guiding Light"? I could not believe it when his character died. I had no reason to continue watching "GL." Please tell me he is still on television somewhere. -Betty in Arkansas

Dear Reader: It was Matthew Bomer's choice to leave the soap. He went to Hollywood - to find stardom on the big screen. Presently, he is vying with Brendan Fraser to play the Man of Steel in the big-budget action flick "Superman V."

Dear Paulette: Antonio Sabato Jr. played Jagger Cates on "General Hospital" during the early '90s, left and then starred in the movie "If Looks Could Kill." Since then, I haven't heard anything more of him. Please give me some info. -D. Phillip, Chicago

Dear Reader: Check out "The Help," a half-hour sitcom airing Friday nights on The WB. Network. Sabato plays Dwayne "The Trainer" in this comic take-off on "Upstairs Downstairs." The show only received a six-episode order so if you want to see Sabato flexing his muscles, better take a look now.

Send questions of general interest to Paulette Cohn, Soap Talk, Zap2it, 333 Glen St., Glens Falls, NY 12801, or e-mail to soaptalk@tribune.com. Only questions selected for this column will be answered. Personal replies cannot be sent.

Miss USA 2004

Two of the regulars on "Access Hollywood," co-host Nancy O'Dell and correspondent Billy Bush, moonlight from their weekday jobs to serve as hosts of the 53rd annual edition of this pageant from the Kodak Theatre in Hollywood. While he won't get the chance to say "You're fired!" this time, Donald Trump continues as executive producer of the event, which still entails all the traditional categories as Suzie Castillo crowns her successor.

Movie: Promise

James Garner and Emmy winner James Woods do

superb, affecting work in this 1986 Hallmark Hall of Fame drama about the strained relationship between a schizophrenic man (Woods) and his brother. They become housemates upon the death of their mother, who had been the troubled sibling's caretaker. Piper Laurie also earned an Emmy as a longtime family friend.

9 p.m. on 4-CBS

CSI: Miami

A murder immediately seems to yield likely suspects in "Blood Moon." The dead man was known to have subjected Cuban refugees to unimaginable torture, so Horatio (David Caruso) and his team start their investigation with the loved ones of some of the victims. Surprising twists develop as the probe continues, thanks largely to forensic evidence.

7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

8 Simple Rules

Although he might seem an unusual fit for this series, David Spade ("Just Shoot Me") guest stars in "Get Real." He plays Cate's (Katey Sagal) visiting nephew, whose advice to Rory and Kerry (Martin Spanjers, Amy Davidson) about their respective dilemmas causes plenty of household problems. James Garner continues his guest role as Cate's father.

7 p.m. on 38-WB

Gilmore Girls

Spring break lures Rory and Paris (Alexis Bledel, Liza Weil) to Florida in the new episode "Girls in Bikinis, Boys Do the Twist." They have a little too much fun by the time they encounter their old Chilton comrades Madeline and Louise (Shelly Cole, Teal Redman). Lorelai (Lauren Graham) gets a key from Jason (Chris Eigeman). Luke (Scott Patterson) erupts over news of Nicole's (Tricia O'Kelley) love life.

7:30 p.m. on 6-NBC

Happy Family

The comedy series ends its maiden season with "Dear Mom," a tale about Annie's (Christine Baranski) birthday. The only gifts she wants from her children are letters about their respective lives, but Tim (Tyler Francavilla) refuses — initially at least. Alex (Jamie Pressly) believes she knows where her relationship with Todd (Jeff B. Davis) is heading after a tree crashes to the ground.

8 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

President Palmer (Dennis Haysbert) turns to Jack (Kiefer Sutherland) when the sinister Stephen Saunders (guest star

Paul Blackthorne) orders the murder of CTU chief Ryan Chappelle (guest star Paul Schulze) in the new episode "Day 3: 6:00 AM — 7:00 AM." At the quarantined hotel where the virus has been released, Michelle (Reiko Aylesworth) offers an option to those who have been exposed to the illness.

8 p.m. on 6-NBC

Frasier

Guest star Bette Midler returns as Frasier's (Kelsey Grammer) ex-wife, Lilith, in "Guns 'N' Neuroses." They're reunited when a well-intentioned friend arranges a blind date for Lilith — with Frasier. Niles and Daphne (David Hyde Pierce, Jane Leeves) don't want Martin (John Mahoney) to continue having a gun.

8 p.m. on BRAV

Showbiz Moms & Dads

Five families are determined to put their respective children in the spotlight as this unscripted series premieres. Cameras follow the daily lives of the subjects — ranging from a Hollywood agent aiming to make her daughter a star, to a Florida family on the child-beauty-pageant circuit. Emotions typically run high during the pursuit of fame and fortune.

8:30 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

It's All Relative

A stray dog taken in by Liz and Bobby (Maggie Lawson, Reid Scott) prompts their families to compare parenting techniques in the new episode "Doggy-Style." His parents advocate being tough disciplinarians, while hers favor a gentler approach based on suggestion rather than command. The result? Bobby and Liz worry about the kind of parents they will be.

8:31 p.m. on 6-NBC

Scrubs

J.D.'s (Zach Braff) romance with Danni (guest star Tara Reid) means he has to spend more time with Dr. Cox (John C. McGinley) in "My Fifteen Seconds." As the two men try to foil each other, Danni and her sister Jordan (Christa Miller Lawrence) become less tolerant. Carla and Elliot (Judy Reyes, Sarah Chalke) struggle to balance their personal and professional lives.

9 p.m. on 4-CBS

Judging Amy

"Kilt Trip," the drama series' 100th episode, finds Amy (Amy Brenneman) second-guessing her engagement to Stu (Reed Diamond) as their wedding day approaches. Compounding her personal dilemma is the professional problem she faces after suspending the life sentence given to a minor, who was tried as an adult for a murder.

Angel

Lindsay (guest star Christian Kane) holds the key, or so Angel (David Boreanaz) and his comrades believe, to the Senior Partners' scheme in the new episode "Underneath." Angel and company follow Lindsay to a hellish world beneath the city to get the information they need. Eve (Sarah Thompson) is tracked by a powerful stranger (guest star Adam Baldwin, "Firefly").

Dateline NBC

It might seem a little too cozy that this newsmagazine is devoting an hour to covering one of the same network's unscripted shows — but when a show has fared as well in the ratings as "The Apprentice" has, it's hard to fault NBC for wanting to build maximum interest in the next night's season finale, "Behind: The Apprentice" offers interviews with Donald Trump and the contestants; those dismissed and those still remaining.

8 p.m. on BRAV

Keen Eddie

Eddie (Mark Valley) gets a taste of the good life, although some aspects of it aren't all that good, in "Keeping Up Appearances." He suddenly finds himself serviced by a personal chauffeur with a luxury car, but acting the part doesn't come naturally to Eddie. Fiona (Sienna Miller) also is out of her usual element when she's chosen as the model for her company's new ad campaign.

8 p.m. on HALL

Movie: Breathing Lessons

An adaptation of Anne Tyler's Pulitzer Prize-winning novel, this 1994 Hallmark Hall of Fame drama teams James Garner and Joanne Woodward as a long-married couple driving to and from a funeral. Along the way, they reflect on the times they've spent together — both good and bad. The

8:30 p.m. on 4-CBS

The Stones

Barbara and Stan (Judith Light, Robert Klein) get back on the dating circuit for the first time in years in the new episode "Romancing the Stones." Stan finds himself with the potential for an office affair, while Barbara turns to the Internet to find a match for herself. Karly (Lindsay Sloane) gets in the way of Winston's (Jay Baruchel) love life. Gigi Rice guest stars.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order

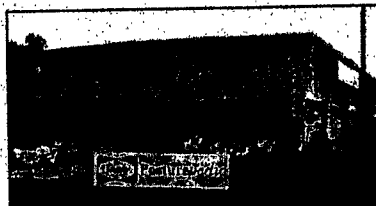

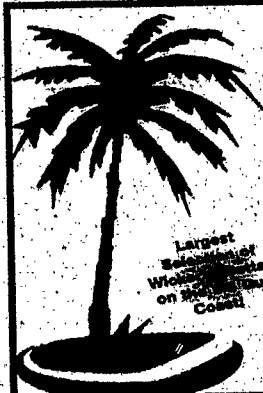

The murders of a mobster and a movie producer at a site known for its underworld clientele spark an investigation by Briscoe and Green (Jerry Orbach, Jesse L. Martin) in the new episode "Everybody Loves Raimondo's." A recent film made about the underworld could be the reason for the killings.

Friday Best Bets

7 p.m. on 4-CBS

Joan of Arcadia

Joan's (Amber Tamblyn) interest in a certain historical figure — namely, Joan of Arc — is heightened when she discovers modern scholars' take on the 15th-century martyr in "St. Joan." They believe the ancient Joan, who also communicated with the deity, was schizophrenic. The modern Joan also faces opposition from the masses, or at least her school peers, when she won't retake an exam.

7 p.m. on 38-WB

Reba

Reba (Reba McEntire) comes to regret letting Kyra (Scarlett Pomers) have her way in "The United Front." When the young woman wants to have her first date, Kyra meets with resistance from Brock and Barbra Jean (Christopher Rich, Melissa Peterman) — but Reba gives permission, only to worry when she learns Kyra's beau is older than she thought.

7 p.m. on BRAV

Movie: Junior

Ivan Reitman, who directed Arnold Schwarzenegger and Danny DeVito in 1988's "Twins," brings them together for another movie about miracles of modern maternal medicine. This time, they play Drs. Hesse and Arbogast, scientists working on an anti-miscarriage drug. When their funding is yanked, they press on, with Hesse as the guinea pig. Before you can say, "Mr. Mom," he's pregnant. Emma Thompson also stars in the 1994 comedy.

7:30 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

The Big House

Eartha's (Yvette Nicole Brown) new boyfriend, Martin (guest star Malcolm Barrett), finds a soulmate in Kevin (Kevin Hart) in the new episode "A Friend in Need." After the initial pleasure over the alliance fades, Eartha and Kevin find themselves vying for Martin's attention. Former "Murphy Brown" co-star Joe Regalbuto directed the tale.

8 p.m. on HALL

Movie: Follow the Stars Home

Kimberly Williams ("According to Jim") stars in this 2001 drama as a single mom struggling to raise a daughter with severe disabilities. Despite having no husband — the cad (Eric Close, "Without a Trace") walked out when she refused to abort — she's not quite alone; she has her own mom (Blair Brown) and a 12-year-old helper (Alexa Vega). And waiting patiently on the sidelines is a doctor (Campbell Scott), her ex's brother.

8:30 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Married to the Kellys

The familiar adage "Never a borrower nor a lender be" gets another test in the new episode "The Good Son-in-Law," as Chris (Josh Braaten) takes money from Tom (Breckin Meyer) in order to start a new business venture. Tom gets an opportunity to ghostwrite a book for a football star (guest star Tony Gonzalez).

8:30 p.m. on 38-WB

The Help

The sitcom ends its maiden season with "Searching for Grandpa Eddie," which does indeed revolve around a search for Grandpa Eddie (Jack Axelrod). When Molly (Tori Spelling) takes him out for a walk as her bid to win Arlene's (Brenda Strong) new employee-of-the-month competition, Grandpa goes MIA. The other household employees try to help Molly look for Grandpa.

Kimberly Williams

9 p.m. on 4-CBS

Cold Case

Lilly's (Kathryn Morris) mission turns unexpectedly personal in "Fly Away." She tries to help a woman who emerges from a two-year coma with an impaired memory — and a desperate need to know who murdered her young daughter. As the investigation moves forward, Lilly feels compelled to reconsider her own relationship with her mother, which has not been the best. Laura Regan ("Saving Jessica Lynch") guest stars.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Third Watch

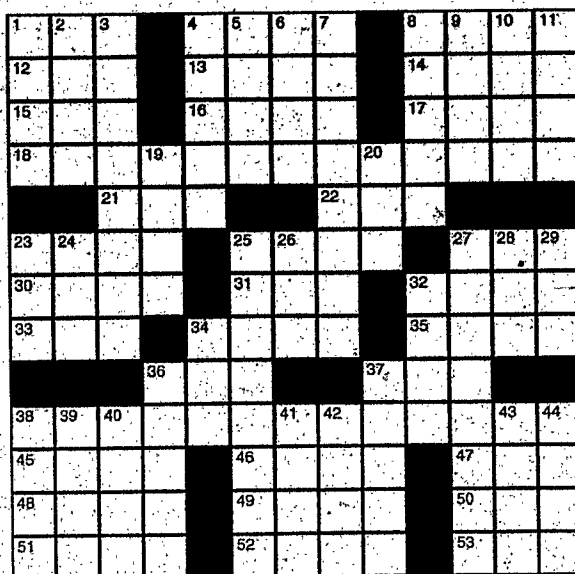

Information supplied to Cruz (Tia Texada) by Bosco's (Jason Wiles) brother (guest star Charlie Day) sends Bosco and Yokas (Molly Price) after rival Ecstasy dealers in the new episode "Spanking the Monkey." Most of the involved parties collide at a packed rave where a fire breaks out. Firefighters come to suspect their rookie peer Hart (guest star Joe Sikora) is in collusion with the site's owners.

Saturday Best Bets

7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Movie: The Mummy Returns

A decade has passed for the characters again played by Brendan Fraser and Rachel Weisz in this 2001 adventure sequel, but similar mayhem is on tap. Now married parents, they become engaged once more in battle against the ancient enemy (Arnold Vosloo), who has been shipped in a mummified state to London. Wrestling icon The Rock co-stars as the Scorpion King, who received his own movie spinoff later.

7 p.m. on 4-CBS

Movie: Miss Congeniality

Sandra Bullock gives an entertaining performance in this 2000 comedy, which she also produced. She plays a streetwise FBI agent who is challenged to adopt a more gracious persona when going under cover at a trouble-plagued beauty pageant. Benjamin Bratt plays her partner, and Michael Caine is hilarious as her consultant, who's hard-pressed to give her a full makeover. Candice Bergen and William Shatner co-star.

7 p.m. on AMC

Movie: Patton

George C. Scott refused the Oscar he was awarded for his 1970 performance as the controversial World War II general — which isn't to say that he deserved it any less. He makes that evident from the first scene of the film, in which he makes a memorable speech in front of a huge U.S. flag. The film also was named best picture. Karl Malden co-stars as Gen. Omar Bradley.

7 p.m. on FAM

Movie: Forever Young

A 1930s test pilot (Mel Gibson) volunteers to be frozen in a cryogenic experiment led by his best friend (George Wendt) after his true love (Isabel Glasser) is injured in a car accident. Something goes awry and he wakes up 50 years later, forgotten and locked away in an Army warehouse. Helped by a divorced nurse and her son (Jamie Lee Curtis, Elijah Wood), he tries to recover his past in this 1992 drama.

7 p.m. on HBO

Movie: Head of State

Chris Rock wears many hats on this amusing 2003 political comedy as director, co-writer and star. He plays a low-level Washington, D.C., dignitary who's suddenly made his party's presidential nominee. He decides to keep the ticket close to home by making his brother (Bernie Mac) his vice-presidential candidate — which could make the White House a very lively place. Dylan Baker, Lynn Whitfield and Robin Givens co-star.

8 p.m. on TNT

Movie: Romeo Must Die

Martial artist Jet Li and singer Aaliyah star in this action-packed 2000 update of "Romeo and Juliet." Li plays an ex-cop from Hong Kong who comes to California seeking information on his brother's death. Aaliyah plays the daughter of the man who runs the black mob, which is battling an Asian-American crime organization. They become not only lovers — to their families' dismay, of course — but partners in crime-solving.

9 p.m. on 4-CBS

The District

A woman (guest star Jennifer Coppling) shoots a doctor (guest star Larry Bates) she accused of letting her terminally ill mother die in the new episode "Passing Time." The doctor allegedly had talked the deceased woman into making him her sole beneficiary. Nancy (Elizabeth Marvel) worries when her father's health takes a turn for the worse. Michael Tucker ("L.A. Law") guest stars.

9 p.m. on TBS

Movie: Presumed Innocent

An assistant prosecutor is found murdered in her apartment, and the chief suspect turns out to be her boss — who also was her lover. While preparing his defense, the man discovers some unsavory facts about his late mistress. Harrison Ford stars in this 1990 adaptation of Scott Turow's best seller with Brian Dennehy, Raul Julia, Bonnie Bedelia and Paul Winfield.

9 p.m. and USA

Nashville Star

Four contenders for the championship remain, and they have no choice but to display togetherness in the new episode "Duets." They're paired off in various combinations, undoubtedly hoping the judges still will see them for their individual talents. Country-music stars Terri Clark and Trace Adkins participate, and Nancy O'Dell ("Access Hollywood") is the host.

(Ratings for each film begin with a "star" rating - one star meaning "poor," four meaning "excellent" - followed by the Motion Picture Association of America rating, and then by a family-viewing guide, the key for which appears below.)

STARTING THIS WEEK (New releases):

"KILL BILL, VOL. 1": Extremely graphic violence is plentiful in the first half of director Quentin Tarantino's ("Pulp Fiction") furiously paced saga of a hit woman (Uma Thurman) who seeks revenge after barely surviving a massacre on her wedding day. Her main target is the mastermind of the attack, her boss Bill (David Carradine). Lucy Liu, Daryl Hannah, Michael Madsen and Vivica A. Fox play the others she's after. Martial-arts icon Sonny Chiba co-stars. DVD extra: "making-of" documentary.  (R: AS, P, GV)

"TIMELINE": A trip to the distant past is in store for a young man (Paul Walker, "The Fast and the Furious") whose father (Billy Connolly) is trapped in 14th-century France. This less-exciting-than-it-should-be fantasy is based on Michael Crichton's best seller and directed by Richard Donner ("Lethal Weapon"). The son and several comrades use a time-travel device, and land in the midst of a fierce battle between French and British troops. The visitors have six hours to complete their rescue mission and get back to the present day. Frances O'Connor, Gerard Butler and David Thewlis also star. DVD extras: theatrical trailer; "making-of" documentaries.  (PG-13: P, V)

"CASA DE LOS BABYS": The best intentions of several U.S. women mire them in another land's red tape in this compelling drama from one of the icons of the independent-film world, writer-director John Sayles. The ladies are gathered at the same South American hotel, awaiting the children they plan to adopt - but there's a big hitch none of them counted on. The sterling ensemble cast includes Maggie Gyllenhaal, Daryl Hannah, Marcia Gay Harden, Rita Moreno, Mary Steenburgen and Lili Taylor. DVD extras: audio commentary by Sayles; "making-of" documentary.  (R: AS, P)

"PAUL MCCARTNEY: THE MUSIC AND ANIMATION COLLECTION": A score composed by the ex-Beatle backs three cartoon shorts narrated by Dustin Hoffman and cleverly animated by director Geoff Dunbar. "Tropic Island Hum" showcases animals who have fallen prey to humans; "Tuesday," inspired by a children's book and dedicated to the late Linda McCartney, follows frogs as they invade people's homes; and "Rupert and the Frog Song" features frogs yet again, as a bear observes several of them putting on a musical show. DVD extras: interview with Paul McCartney; "making-of" documentary on "Tropic Island Hum"; initial drawings for "Tuesday."  (Not rated)

"THE EVENT": A string of deaths in the Chelsea area of New York prompts a district attorney (Parker Posey) to investigate in this intriguingly cast mystery. The latest tragedy is the apparent suicide of an ill man, but the prosecutor learns - by interviewing those who were close to him - that the circumstances may not be as they first appeared. Other stars include Sarah Polley ("Dawn of the Dead"), Don McKellar, Jane Leeves ("Frasier") and

Oscar winner Olympia Dukakis.  (R: AS, P, V)

"TAKE ME HOME: THE JOHN DENVER STORY": The late singer-songwriter's life is recalled in this made-for-CBS 2000 drama, as Chad Lowe gives an earnest performance in the title role. The script largely focuses on Denver's relationships with his first wife (Kristin Davis, "Sex and the City"), who was the inspiration for his hit "Annie's Song," and with his Air Force pilot father (Gerald McPhee). The score includes other Denver standards such as "Take Me Home, Country Roads" and "Rocky Mountain High."  (Not rated: AS)

COMING SOON (Upcoming releases):

"THE HAUNTED MANSION" (April 20): A real-estate man (Eddie Murphy) can't help but check out a foreboding house he and his family pass en route to a vacation. (PG: P, V)

"MASTER AND COMMANDER: THE FAR SIDE OF THE WORLD" (April 20): Russell Crowe plays a British sea captain in this Oscar-winning adaptation of Patrick O'Brian's novels. (PG-13: P, V)

"WIN A DATE WITH TAD HAMILTON" (April 20): A small-town grocery clerk (Kate Bosworth) wins a contest to be the escort of a popular actor (Josh Duhamel). (PG-13: AS, P)

"BIG FISH" (April 27): A man (Billy Crudup) listens to his father's (Albert Finney) tales of being a younger fellow. (Ewan McGregor) in director Tim Burton's fantasy. (PG-13: AS, P)

"LOVE ACTUALLY" (April 27): Several romantic stories criss-cross in London. The large cast includes Hugh Grant, Emma Thompson, Liam Neeson, Laura Linney and Colin Firth. (R: AS, P)

Shields likes going retro, but finds real joy in the present

By John Crook
© Zap2it

Even as a child model, Brooke Shields missed out on enjoying the glorious excess that was "fashion" in the 1970s.

That's why she relishes making up for lost time on "That '70s Show," the Wednesday night Fox sitcom on which Shields currently guest stars as the flamboyant mother of Jackie Burkhardt (series regular Mila Kunis).

"It's fun to walk in and be so over-the-top as far as hair, makeup, heels - I'm totally decked out in every scene, and it's fun to be dressed up and pretty," Shields says of Pamela, her dressed-to-the-nines character.

"I didn't get to wear the bangles and the whole extreme thing. I missed that, but I have to say that today these styles work. I could go out to a party and be hip-hop cool or retro-chic. It's definitely all about sex: How high can we slit the dress up my leg? It's fun."

The show's producers certainly think so. Originally hired for a three-episode guest stint, Shields' "70s" gig has been extended because her character has clicked with viewers.

"At first, I really worried about walking into this well-oiled machine," Shields admits. "After being on my own show (NBC's "Suddenly Susan") for four years, I know that it's tough to welcome in a guest, not because you don't like them, but simply because you are in a routine. I was just so pleasantly surprised by how graciously everyone welcomed me and gave me the lowdown on how things worked."

The previously unseen Pamela had deserted the show's suburban setting of Point Place, Wis., after her city councilman husband was thrown into jail for accepting a bribe, forcing Jackie to move in with her friend Donna (Laura Prepon). Pamela's unexpected return has shaken up most of the characters, especially after she seduces Donna's schlubby father, Bob (Don Stark).

"Not only does the apple not fall far from the tree, but when it does, Pamela lets someone else pick it up for her," Shields laughs. "She's the new 'hot mom,' wearing skirts that are way too short and plunging, plunging necklines, and it all truly disturbs Kitty's (Debra Jo Rupp) equilibrium, as well as challenging all the men - or should I say boys? They all just drool over her."

"Oddly enough, Jackie and Pamela both have this strange knack of being appealing, even though they are just completely self-absorbed. That's a tribute to the writers, because even though these two characters are completely oriented toward themselves, they're OK to have around even if it's just for you to shake your head. They're not too objectionable. And let's face it, they're well-packaged, so to speak."

If her current TV gig is proving to be a hit, Shields' off-camera life seems even more charmed. For one thing, a 2001 Broadway stint as Sally Bowles in the Tony-winning revival of the musical "Cabaret" silenced most of the critics who savaged the actress's work earlier in her career.

"It was absolutely life-changing," Shields says of her "Cabaret" run. "I would go so far as to say it was the single best thing that I've ever done. If I had to choose the most rewarding and most challenging role I've done, I can say that the feedback I got from that is unlike anything I've ever gotten before. I mean, it was truly shocking.
